VALIDITY OF COUNTY SALOON LICENSES ATTACKED.

Opposition to Scherrer Raises Point That Dramshop Keepers Signed Petitions for Property Owners.

If the point raised by the attorneys for the remonstrators to the saloon petition Court at Clayton yesterday is sustained the licenses under which a majority of the saloons in St. Louis County are being operated will be invalidated.

The question is one of agency. Sherrer's petition contains about 600 names in the same handwriting. His attorney did not deny that the signatures were did not deny that the signatures were placed on the petition by the same person, but contended that the authority to do so was understood and sanctioned by custom and usage.

The salconkeepers have an association in St. Louis County and assist each other in the preparation of peutions, each one of which must contain the signatures of a majority of the assessed tax-paying citisens of the township in which the dramshop is located. To facilitate matters, blank petitions are sent around to the members, who fill them with the names of patrons who may have agreed to sign the several petitions.

The remonstrators contended that the authority should affirmatively appear on the petitions, and that, failing to do so, the names should be stricken off, which would deprive the court of jurisdiction, as it would leave the petition without the required majority.

The matter will be taken to the Court

It would leave the petition without the required majority.

The matter will be taken to the Court of Appeals on a writ of certiorari if the license is granted. As all the saloon licenses were granted on similar petitions the dramshop keepers will watch the decision with interest.

A large crowd of De Hodiamont citizens appeared in court to remonstrate against the petition. They maintained that Etzel avenue, on which Scherrer wants to open his saloon, is the only the outshier in that part of the township which is free from saloone. The Wabash Railroad Company also appeared in court by an attorney to fight the petition, as the location is at its intersection with Etzel avenue.

GET-RICH-QUICK INVESTORS' CLAIMS HELD TO BE VALID.

In Williams's Test Suit Against E. J. Arnold & Co., Judge Adams Says Victims Are Not Conspirators.

Get-rich-quick concerns cannot regard investors as participators in frauds, and thus expunge the investors from the list of creditors. Such was the decision of Judge Adams of the United States District Court yesterday in giving judgment in favor of A. E. Williams against E. J. Arnold & Co., bankrupts. The decision upset the claim of the Gottschalk Printing Company, which was set up as preferred against all other crediters, the case of Williams being made a test one. In his decision Judge Adams held that the inducements sent out by E. J. Arnold & Co. to the public were that they were engaged in breeding, selling and racing horses, and that they were in a position to pay enormous percentages to investto pay enormous percentages to investors.

The fact that the public sent in money in enormous sums, with the understanding that part of it was to be used in betting on horse races, did not do away with the fact that the company receiving the money was not doing what it represented; that a very small percentage of money was used in betting, and that their h gh rates of interest were paid, not from the source they mentioned, but directly from the capfial they received, and that their assets were never sufficient to meet their obligations.

were never sufficient to meet their obliga-tions.

Williams's claim was for $5.200. The ref-erce's decision was reversed, and it was ordered that the claim be paid.

vice speakership. By Charter provision the members meet on the third Tuesday of The House of Delegates, under the record of which the members are proud. During the session just closed the House passed bills for the reconstruction of fifty streets-twenty-two brick, three granite and fourteen bituminous granite thoroughfares-a total of twenty miles.

Nineteen sewer districts were established and constructed, traversing twenty-five miles of territory. Sixty-eight alleys were improved, of which sixty-five were brick and three granite-paved surfaces, ten miles in length.

Eille were also passed to remedial the brick and three grainte-paved surfaces, ten miles in length.

Bills were also passed to remodel the Emergency Hospital No. 2; to finish the City Hall; to buy two engine houses; to improve Grand and Jefferson avenue bridges, to done at a foot-bridge at Ewing avenue over the railroad yards; to construct a foot-bridge over the railroad tracks on King's highway, near Manchester avenue; Union avenue temporary viaducts bill; Wahash bridge bill; a bill to redecorate and refurnish the Courthouse and improve grounds; two Poorhouse annex bills and bills to establish electric lighting plants at the City Hall and Insane Asylum.

FINAL MEASURES.

FINAL MEASURES.

At yesterday's House meeting final action was taken on measures to improve Laclede avenue between Grand avenue and Laclede avenue between Grand avenue and King's highway, and upon the bill to relieve the Health Commissioner of making weekly inspections of Workhouse meals. Many bills were signed and Delegate Fontana moved that the House give a vote of thanks to the press for the manner in which their proceedings were presented to the public. The motion was adopted.—
At the last session of the City Council a bill to provice for additional help for the Lighting Department was returned with the Mayor's veto. The Mayor stated in a message that the bill did not specify the number of persons required or the compensation that was expected, and therefore was not worthy of consideration. He also said that the work expected of the new help could be done cheaper by contract.

Upon the motion of Councilman Gibson the World's Fair bond was returned to the Mayor to be reintroduced at the beginning of the next session. In the bond the Louisena Purchase Exposition Company binds itself to set aside $500,000 additional after all expenses are paid for the restoration of the park. all expenses are paid for the restoration of the park.
